Lincoln

Llewellyn Quimby, the confessed murderer of the late William Kenniston of Boothbay, is still incarcerated in the county jail at Wiscasset awaiting trial at the next term of the Supreme Court to be held in Wiscasset. Quimby gets through the day very quietly passing his time either in reading or looking out of his cell window. The jail is on a high piece of ground and affords an excellent view of the town. He is very quiet and has very little to say to the other inmates of the jail all of whom are in for petty offences compared with his awful crime. He never refers to his deed and makes no talk concerning himself to any one. He has not expressed the slightest sorrow or regret at killing Kenniston. A lawyer has been secured to defend him at his trial but although his name has not yet been made public it is well known that the man is a prominent member of the Lincoln county bar and that his residence is Wiscasset

Oxford

F. G. and Edwin Wallace, rich capitalists and manufacturers of Rochester, N. H., purchased Tuesday, the water power at Steep Falls and the electric light plant. This power is situated at the lower end of Norway village has a fall of sixty feet and is one of the safest and best in western Maine. The Wallaces stand high as business men, where they are known, their capital does not remain idle and it is safe to say that manufacturing of some kind will be carried on here by them

Eugene McGullicuddy, who has just finished a sentence in Alfred jail, was immediately arrested by Officer Haskell, of Lewiston, and taken to that city. He was brought before the court on the charge of illegal voting and put under $500 bonds for his appearance before the Supreme court at Auburn

A short time ago two tramps were hired and set to work on the farm of A. G. Prentiss at Old Orchard. They did their work well, and were paid off and discharged, Saturday night. They remained at a house at Old Orchard until Monday morning, when they were seen going toward the Prentiss farm. The occupants of the farm were away at the time, but on returning, found that two overcoats, an under coat, two pairs of pants, a hat, two watch chains, a gold ring and some other jewelry and between seven and eight dollars in money had been stolen

The trial of Mrs. Orrin Boothby, of South Waterboro, for an assault upon, and with intent to kill, Mrs. Ivory Bean, was postponed Wednesday, owing to Mrs. Bean's condition rendering it impossible for her to appear as a witness. The doctor thinks she will recover. The trial will be held July 11th.

The search for the body of Luther Bryant, the young son of Geo. F. Bryant, who was drowned Friday, has been continued, but with most discouraging results and it is the opinion of the majority that the one who thought they saw the body go over the falls and through the rapids, Monday, were mistaken. Some men at work upon the schooners at the Island wharves say that they saw a small log come down stream with a bare spot upon one end, from which the bark had peeled off and as this log was seen about [illegible] it is thought that in the rapids where only momentary glimpses of it could be obtained it was mistaken for the body of the drowned boy

Perkins wrote what was intended to be a funny letter closing with "Enclosed find $—if you can." Mr. Caldwell replied acknowledging the receipt of the letter briefly and closed by saying, "Enclosed find pass as requested—if you can!" Mr. Perkins paid his fare

A Home of Rest for Horses is a successful English scheme. The chief object is to give temporary rest to the horses of cab drivers and poor tradesmen who in most cases are obliged to keep their horses at work until past help, when a timely holiday would restore the poor creatures. Every comfort and convenience is at hand to make life pleasant and easy to the old horses. Summer and winter boxes large and airy, warm clothes, regular and plentiful meals, an extensive stable yard for winter exercise and a splendid grass run is at their disposal, and if anything ails the ancient almoners, the veterinary surgeon of the society comes with his skill to their aid

Robert Louis Stevenson the author is described by a fellow traveller who journeyed in the same car with him to New York, as follows: "He has a long, narrow face and wears his long brown hair parted in the middle and combed back. It is just such straight, coarse hair as General Roger A. Pryor's, but much lighter in color. His black velvet coat and vest showed plainly, and over his legs he wore a black and white checked shawl. His Byronic collar was soft and untidy and his shirt was unlaundered, but his clothes were scrupulously clean. On the long, thin white fingers of his left hand he wore two rings, and he kept these fingers busy, constantly pulling his drooping blonde mustache."

Maine Homœopathists

The Maine Homœopathic Medical Society held its twenty-second annual session in Augusta, Tuesday. Dr. W. L. Thompson, of Augusta, called the meeting to order, and Vice President Dr. J. H. Knox, of Orono, presided. Twenty-two were present, of whom six were ladies. Dr. Emma Kalbfleisch, Dr. S. A. Abbott, of Biddeford, and Dr. Henry C. Hallowell, of Auburn, were elected new members of the society. The bequest of the late Dr. Elliphalet Clark, of Deering, for founding a homœopathic hospital, was discussed at length, and the following were chosen a committee to take it into consideration the bequest and report to the next annual meeting: Drs. J. W. Whidden and G. A. Clark, Portland, Dr. W. L. Thompson, Augusta, Dr. W. F. Shepard, Bangor. At the evening session the following officers were reported:

President—J. H. Knox, Orono

Vice Presidents—J. W. Whidden, Portland, D. S. Perkins, [illegible]

Recording Secretary—[illegible] Yarmouth

Corresponding Secretary—[illegible] Appleton

The Magazines

The leading article in HARPER'S for June is Mr. R. R. Bowker's [illegible] paper [illegible] literary [illegible] with [illegible] portraits [illegible]

Sketches of [illegible] by Mr. [illegible] life and [illegible] illustrated [illegible]

In [illegible] Central States Robert [illegible] gives a full description [illegible] It is fully illustrated and [illegible] is particularly good

[illegible] reading [illegible] to a complete story by Henry James. This is called [illegible] illustrations by [illegible] its interest still grows. Mr. Howells [illegible] April Hopes [illegible]

[illegible] Abbey illustrates [illegible] with four [illegible] and Alfred Parsons [illegible] a full page drawing [illegible] with Yon Lamb

The development of the [illegible] Church service in New York leading to the introduction of boy singers is sketched by H. E. Krehbiel [illegible] Surpliced Choirs in New York. [illegible] New York [illegible]

In [illegible] Desert [illegible] lived [illegible]

In his [illegible] the fourth of the Great West Series Mr. Charles Dudley Warner [illegible] the newspapers [illegible] qualities which they possess

The [illegible]

The June number of THE CENTURY opens with the record of Mr. Kennan's [illegible] illustrated articles this [illegible] of Prisons of Western Siberia. The frontispiece of the magazine shows [illegible] Mr. Kennan [illegible] subjects treated by Mr. Kennan [illegible] A [illegible] Hospital Ward, The Women's Prison, An Exile Marching Party, The Convict Barge, etc

The Lincoln History in this number contains chapters on The Advance, Bull Run, Fremont, and Military Emancipation. A striking point in this installment is the account of Lincoln's reception of the news of Bull Run

The list of the present series of illustrated Western articles by Mr. Roosevelt is entitled The Ranchman's Rifle on Crag and Prairie. This like other articles is accompanied by Remington's graphic sketches of Western scenes

Another illustrated article is written by Mr. Theodore D. Vinne, printer of The Century, and is entitled The Printers' Paradise [illegible] The Plantin-Moretus Museum at Antwerp

Mr. Burroughs's appreciative article on Matthew Arnold's Criticism [illegible] been sent to the printer for the June Century before Mr. Arnold's death. In the [illegible] number Mrs. [illegible] points out some of the errors into which Mr. Arnold fell in discussing America [illegible]

Professor Atwater's food article this month discusses the question What Shall We Eat. Among the topics are Standards for Daily Dietaries, American vs European Diet, Food and Wages and Reason for [illegible] It is accompanied by portraits of von Liebig, Bernard, [illegible] and Payen

The fiction of the number includes continued chapters of Dr. Eggleston's novel, The Graysons, accompanied by a picture by Miss Eggleston wherein is depicted the young lawyer, Abraham Lincoln. The concluding portions of Henry James's The Liar is given with two short stories Selina's Singular Marriage by Grace Denio Litchfield and a love story By Telephone, by Brander Matthews. A biographical paper is devoted by Mr. Herrick to Colonel Richard Malcolm Johnston the Southern story writer. A portrait of Colonel Johnston accompanies the article

In this number there is another article by Mr. Cheney on bird songs; there is also a group of poems entitled Kansas Bird Songs by Miss Amanda T. Jones. There are poems also by Charles Edwin Markham, Louise Chandler Moulton, Julian Hawthorne, Frances Louisa Bushnell, Charles G. D. Roberts, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Mrs. Annie Fields and Philip Bourke Marston

The June ST. NICHOLAS has a very strong leading article entitled A Great Show by Professor Alfred Church, describing the Circus Maximus at Rome. It is finely illustrated by F. H. Rashfield. Thomas Nelson Page continues the excellent serial, Two Little Confederates and Celia Thaxter contributes a charming children's story, Cat's-Cradle. Caterina and her Fate by E. Cavazza, is an old Sicilian legend put into verse and richly illustrated by R. B. Birch

Louise Chandler Moulton writes a full but simple memorial of Louisa May Alcott, containing extracts from her letters to the editor of St. Nicholas, and the article is illustrated by a new picture of Miss Alcott which is much more pleasing than any before published, and also by a picture of her adopted daughter (the child of her sister Amy), Lulu Nieriker.

In The Men who Died, Ruth Hays tells of a little negro boy's wish on Decoration Day to do honor to the dead soldiers, and Kemble has fittingly embodied the hero

Dogs of Noted Americans, Part I, contains accounts by Gertrude Van R. Wickham of the dogs belonging to Garfield, Lee, Eggleston, Whittier, Miss Woolson, and Mrs. Burnett. The pictures, from photographs, are full of character. Miss Magruder continues the child-sketches from George Eliot, by the first of two papers devoted to Tom and Maggie Tulliver, of the Mill on the Floss. There is an account of a mite of a pony, A Namesake of Jumbo, by T. D. Wright. Miss Comins gives another Picture for Little German Readers, and J. G. Francis has excavated a choice Aztec Fragment, as full of character as the others of the series. Drill, the serial, by John Preston True, is intensely interesting and ought not to be missed by any boy old or young. Housekeeping Song No. IV is also presented, and The Interrupted Little Boy is a delightful sketch short but pithy

Among the lighter features, are contributions by Amelie Rives, Emilie Poulsson, Margaret Johnson, Estelle Thomson, Julia P. Ballard, Alfred Brennan and C. W. Miller

Resolutions of Respect

Whereas, The Angel of Death has again entered our midst and taken from us our esteemed and worthy brother Meshach Clark

Resolved That we as members of North Star Grange No 4[illegible] deeply mourn the loss of one who by his Christian life and consistent example endeared himself to all

Resolved That while we sincerely regret that he can meet with us no more, we bow in submission to His Divine will, knowing that God doeth all things well

Resolved That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to his many relatives and friends and more especially to his bereaved wife and children, who so keenly feel his loss and miss his loved presence

Resolved That our charter be draped in mourning thirty days

Resolved That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the wife, and a copy be placed on the records of the grange, also be [illegible] columns of the BANGOR WEEKLY COURIER and Bangor Weekly [illegible]

RECOLLECTIONS OF HER CHILDHOOD

[From The Youth's Companion]

One of my earliest memories is of playing with books in my father's study. Building towers and bridges of the big dictionaries looking at pictures, pretending to read, and scribbling on blank pages whenever pen or pencil could be found. Many of these first attempts at authorship still exist and I often wonder if these childish plays did not influence my after life, since books have been my greatest comfort, castle building a never failing delight and scribbling a very profitable amusement

Being born on the birthday of Columbus I seem to have something of my patron saint's spirit of adventure and running away was one of the delights of my childhood. Many a social lunch have I shared with sociable Irish beggar children as we ate our crusts, cold potatoes and salt fish on voyages of discovery among the [illegible] of the vast [illegible] the [illegible] Many an hour [illegible] with strange boys, pretty babies and friendly dogs who I always seemed to feel that this reckless young person needed looking after. On [illegible] the town crier found me fast asleep at ten o'clock at night on a door step in Bedford street with my head pillowed on the curly breast of a big Newfoundland [illegible] who was with difficulty persuaded to release the weary little wanderer who had sobbed herself to sleep there. I often smile as I pass that door and never forget to give a grateful pat to every big dog I meet for never have I slept more soundly than on that dusty step nor found a better friend than the noble animal who watched over the lost baby so faithfully

My father's school was the only one I ever went to and when this was broken up because he introduced methods now all the fashion our lessons went on at home, for he was always sure of four little pupils who firmly believed in their teacher though they have not done him all the credit he deserved. I never liked arithmetic or grammar and dodged these branches on all occasions but reading, composition, history and geography I enjoyed, as well as the stories read to us with a skill which made the dullest charming and useful. Pilgrim's Progress, Krummacher's Parables, Miss Edgeworth and the best of the dear old fairy tales made that hour the pleasantest of our day. On Sundays we had a simple service of Bible stories, hymns and conversation about the state of our little consciences and the conduct of our childish lives which never will be forgotten. Needlework began early, and at ten my skillful sister made a linen shirt beautifully, while at twelve I set up as a doll's dressmaker, with my sign out, and wonderful models in my window. All the children employed me, and my turbans were the rage at one time to the great dismay of the neighbor's hens, who were hotly hunted down that I might tweak out their downiest feathers to adorn the doll's head gear

Active exercise was my delight from the time when a child of six I drove my hoop round the Common without stopping to the days when I did my twenty miles in five hours and went to a party in the evening

I always thought I must have been a deer or a horse in some former state because it was such a joy to run. No boy could be my friend till I had beaten him in a race and no girl if she refused to climb trees, leap fences and be a tomboy. My wise mother, anxious to give me a strong body to support a lively brain, turned me loose in the country and let me run wild, learning of nature what no books can teach and being led, as those who truly love her seldom fail to be

Through nature up to nature's God

I remember running over the hills just at dawn one summer morning, and pausing to rest in the silent woods saw through an arch of trees the sun rise over river, hill and wide green meadows as I never saw it before. Something born of the lovely hour a happy mood, and the unfolding aspirations of a child's soul seemed to bring me very near to God and in the hush of that morning hour I always felt that I got religion, as the phrase goes. A new and vital sense of His presence, tender and sustaining as a father's arm, came to me then never to change through forty years of life's vicissitudes but to grow stronger for the sharp discipline of poverty and pain, sorrow and success

Those Concord days were the happiest of my life for we had charming playmates in the little Emersons, Channings, Hawthornes and Goodwins, with the illustrious parents and their friends to enjoy our pranks and share our excursions

Plays in the barn were a favorite amusement, and we dramatized the fairy tales in great style

People wondered at our frolics but enjoyed them and droll stories are still told of the adventures of those days. Mr. Emerson and Margaret Fuller were visiting my parents one afternoon, and the conversation having turned to the ever-interesting subject of education, Miss Fuller said

"Well, Mr. Alcott, you have been able to carry out your methods in your own family and I should like to see your model children."

She did in a few moments, for as the guests stood on the doorsteps a wild uproar approached and round the corner of the house came a wheelbarrow holding baby May arranged as a queen. I was the horse, bitted and bridled and driven by my elder sister Anna, while Lizzie played dog and barked as loud as her gentle voice permitted. All were shouting and wild with fun, which, however, came to a sudden end as we espied the stately group before us, for my foot tripped and down we all went in a laughing heap, while my mother put a climax to the joke by saying with a dramatic wave of her hand

"Here are the model children, Miss Fuller."

My sensational period began at fifteen when I fell to writing romances, poems, a "heart journal," and dreaming dreams of a splendid future. Browsing over Mr. Emerson's library, I found Goethe's "Correspondence With a Child," and was at once fired with a desire to be a second Bettine making my father's friend my Goethe. So I wrote letters to him but was wise enough never to send them, left wild flowers on the door-steps of my "Master," sung Mignon's song in very bad German under his window, and was fond of wandering by moonlight or sitting in a cherry tree at midnight till the owls scared me to bed. The girlish folly did not last long and the letters were burnt years ago, but Goethe is still my favorite author and Emerson remained my beloved Master while he lived doing more for me as for many another young soul than he ever knew by the simple beauty of his books, the example of a good great man untempted and unspoiled by the world which he made nobler while in it and left the richer when he left

The trials of life began about this time and my happy childhood ended. Money is never plentiful in a philosopher's house and even the maternal pelican could not supply all our wants on the small income which was freely shared with every needy soul who asked for help

Fugitive slaves were sheltered under our roof and my first pupil was a very black George Washington whom I taught to write on the hearth with charcoal, his big fingers finding pen and pencil unmanageable. Mothers' girls seeking protection were guarded among us, hungry travelers sent on to our door to be fed and warmed and if the philosopher happened to own two coats the best went to a needy brother for these were practical Christians who had the most perfect faith in Providence and never found it betrayed

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

—WILL BE HELD IN—

CITY HALL, PORTLAND,

Tuesday, June 12, 1888,

AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M.

For the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor, to be supported at the September election, and transacting any other business that may properly come before it.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for each seventy five votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in [illegible], an additional delegate, and for a fraction of forty votes in excess of seventy five votes, a further additional delegate. Vacancies in the delegation of any city, town or plantation can only be filled by residents of the county in which the vacancy exists.

The State Committee will be in session in the reception room of the Hall at nine o'clock on the morning of the Convention, for the purpose of receiving the credentials of delegates.

All electors of Maine, without regard to past political differences, who believe in protecting the industries of this State and its agricultural products, who believe in protecting the laborer and the wage earner in every right, who believe in pursuing a policy which inspires labor with hope and crowns it with dignity, which gives safety to capital and protects its increase, which secures political power to every citizen, comfort and culture to every home, giving free popular education to the people, in favor of free suffrage and honest counting of ballots, who approve the prohibition of the liquor traffic and the promotion of the cause of temperance, in an economical, and efficient administration of public affairs, a faithfully administered civil service, and who hold all judicious measures for the encouragement of American shipbuilding, are cordially invited to unite with the Republicans in the selection of delegates to this Convention.

Per Order Republican State Committee
J. H. MANLEY, Chairman
ELLIS H. WING, Secretary
Augusta, April 30, 1888.

Arrangement of Trains.

The Republican State Committee have made the following railroad arrangements for the Republican State Convention:

Seats in City Hall will be reserved for Delegates who will be admitted by tickets so classified as to seat town and county delegations together. Delegates will obtain their tickets of the member of the State Committee from their respective counties upon presentation of credentials on morning of Convention to the State Committee, which will be in session to receive the same in the anteroom of City Hall.

The Last Act.

Cleveland and Thurman is the ticket and for the platform it can only be regarded as a remarkable combination even for a Democratic convention. The second act of President Cleveland's programme was fulfilled in the convention yesterday, when the various aspirants for the second place on the ticket were successfully side-tracked in order to drag from the retirement of private life the venerable ex-Senator Thurman, who at this late day finds himself enjoying the unique honor of playing tail to the Cleveland kite. The spectacle of the Democratic party clamoring for the nomination of Thurman in obedience to orders issued from the White House by a President who persistently refused to recognize the party services of the Ohioian in the formation of his Cabinet because he was too old, and who now turns to him simply in the hope of reaping a personal advantage from the use of his name, shows how absolutely the Democracy of the country is dominated by one man. The ticket is a satisfactory one to the Republicans. The action of the St. Louis convention yesterday, in the language of a veteran Democrat, removes Indiana from the doubtful list and places the State in the Republican column. Instead of harmonizing the strife in the ranks of the Indiana Democrats it adds fuel to the flames and the fight will now go on right merrily.

The platform as we have already remarked is a strange combination, sort of a patch-work affair. The tariff plank of the platform of 1884 is reaffirmed as a sop to the Gorman faction, but any significance that could possibly be attached to this by the protectionist Democrats for use in the manufacturing States, is wiped out by the very next line which declares the views contained in the President's message to be a correct interpretation of the 1884 plank, and then, as if this was not enough, the convention proceeds to an indorsement of the Mills free trade bill. During the last Presidential campaign it was declared over and over again, in the States of New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut that the tariff plank in the platform was good protection doctrine but that subterfuge will not work this year. The atmosphere has been cleared and there can be no possible dodging of a direct contest on the issue of free trade vs. protection. Men like Gorman saw the danger of a campaign on that issue before the people, and tried hard to straddle it, the President himself, it is said, also being quite ready to dodge, but read it as you will that platform with its indorsement of the message and the Mills bill means but one thing, the overthrow of the system of protection to American labor and American enterprise.

The Republicans may well feel pleased at the result of the St. Louis convention. Oregon has already passed upon the free trade record of the Administration, the verdict being a splendid triumph for protection. Maine will follow suit in September and in November the people of the whole country will put an end to the sham reform, un-American regime now in control of the government.

Realizing Its Folly.

The Portland Press, realizing that its refusal to publish the letter of ex-State Treasurer Holbrook, written in reply to questions raised in its own columns, was entirely inconsistent with its indignant protestation against the charge of unfairness that has characterized its treatment of Mr. Burleigh's candidacy, significantly seeks to evade that troublesome phase of the discussion. It is impossible to reconcile its positive refusal to publish this letter from a gentleman whose opinion would carry great weight, he having been regarded as one of the best and most careful State Treasurers we have ever had, with its assumption of fairness toward all the candidates in the field, and that the Press is perfectly well aware of this fact is shown by the eagerness with which it attempts to run away from any further reference to what is absolutely clear even to the most obtuse reader. As regards the Augusta correspondent of the Boston Globe we known nothing of him beyond the fact that he is the representative of a Democratic paper, the editor of which seems to be very fearful of the nomination of Mr. Burleigh in this State, judging from the running fire he keeps up on his candidacy. Indeed it is particularly noticeable that the Democratic organs all seem to favor the nomination of any one but Mr. Burleigh, whose evident popularity in the State causes them very much uneasiness. Unlike the Press, however, we do not have to look to Democratic organs to find a justification of our course, having from the first treated all the gentlemen in the gubernatorial canvass with uniform courtesy, so that when the convention shall have recorded its choice THE WHIG is ready for a vigorous campaign with no peevish utterances or petty attacks to explain.

Not Well Posted

Oregon yesterday elected the Republican ticket by about 2,000 plurality. In 1884 the Republican plurality was 2,256. There is no change and Oregon gives notice of that fact.—New York World.

It would be interesting to know upon what information the editor of the World based his assertion. Surely it was not upon the telegraphic news from Oregon that appeared in the same edition of the World under the caption—"the largest since the war—astonishingly large Republican majorities in Oregon." This shows what was the fact, namely, that there had been a very marked change in the State since 1884, but the editor whose duty it was to comment upon the news of the day, either did not know what he was writing about, or what was worse intentionally attempted to let the Democrats down easily by a statement calculated to discredit his own news columns. When this editor receives the latest returns indicating a majority of 7,000 for the Republicans he will possibly find it necessary to admit at least a slight change in the State.

A Black Eye for the Administration.

The Commercial is grieved because THE WHIG displayed a flag over the returns from Oregon, announcing the magnificent Republican victory, and says:

> And yet it was but a short time ago that THE WHIG and other bloody shirt organs held up a proportionately one sided result in Louisiana as certain evidence of Democratic fraud in the election. It makes a decided difference with the regulation organ whether it is "our" party or the other, which has the big majority, when it comes to commenting upon the result.

The comparison is an unfortunate one. The Louisiana election was so manifestly a fraud that even Democrats declared that the returns were impossible with an honest count. One of many similar instances will suffice to show how the returns were manipulated. In the parish of Bossier the returns gave Nicholls 4,213 votes and Warmouth 95, while the registered vote of the parish is only 3,603, or a total of 705 less than the bogus returns indicated. This fixing of the returns was in obedience to the orders of Gov. McEnery, who sent out the following instructions:

> Warmouth is developing too much strength. We must beat him. See to it that your parish returns a large Democratic majority.

There is no doubt that these orders were carefully obeyed all over the State, as the returns from Bossier parish demonstrates. That the Commercial should invite this exposure of Democratic fraud would indicate that its disappointment over the downfall of the Administration's scheme in Oregon had caused it to abandon the little judgment it possessed. When THE WHIG charges fraud it is ready to produce evidence, as in this case, but the Commercial with no figures except those published in THE WHIG's telegraphic report, makes a ridiculous insinuation that has no foundation whatever other than a desire to lessen the effect of the tremendous drubbing its party has received. Oregon started in to repudiate Cleveland and his free trade doctrine and it has rolled up a majority, in spite of the Smith Weeds who have been sent into the State by the Administration, that fell like a wet blanket upon the Cleveland ratification meeting in St. Louis. The Oregon election was a black eye for the Administration.

It Rankles.

> Mr. Brown had no claim on the party for another term. His failure of a re-election was due to Harris M. Plaisted and one or two other aspirants, who were impatient with Mr. Brown, who stood in their way. Plaisted aided the movement to oust Mr. Brown, hoping to sneak in at the last moment, but got beaten.

The above from the Kennebec Democrat shows that Mr. Brown's faithful lieutenant is not entirely pleased at the result of the convention. His reference to Editor Plaisted is not complimentary to say the least and indicates that our Democratic brethren are not dwelling in perfect concord. What is more significant is the fact that Messrs. Plaisted and Bass, the two men who claimed the credit for the election of Chairman Brown in the first place, should now be among his most hostile opponents.

Still Demanding Blaine.

A Washington despatch to the Lewiston Journal says: A prominent Senator not at first inclined to be a supporter of Mr. Blaine's candidacy, showed your correspondent several letters which he had received from gentlemen in different parts of the country, all from entire strangers to him, and which he said, were samples of the communications he is receiving daily. All were of the same tenor, regretting Mr. Blaine's withdrawal and declaring him to be the only man with whom Republican success could be absolutely counted upon in the coming campaign. One writer from Missouri, said that he had just returned from an extensive trip through the West and had found the Blaine sentiment strongly predominating at every point he visited. "With Mr. Blaine as their candidate," he wrote, "the Western Republicans will mortgage time and property to secure his election." The mails of Republican Congressmen are loaded with such communications, especially since Mr. Blaine's recent letter to Whitelaw Reid.

MESSENGER'S NOTICE.

OFFICE OF THE SHERIFF OF PENOBSCOT COUNTY
STATE OF MAINE.

PENOBSCOT, SS. June 7th, A. D. 1888.

This is to give notice, that on the 6th day of June, A. D. 1888, a Warrant in Insolvency was issued out of the Court of Insolvency for said County of Penobscot, against the estate of Franklin Lawry of Charleston, in said County of Penobscot, adjudged to be an Insolvent Debtor, on petition of said Debtor, which petition was filed on the second day of June, A. D. 1888, to which date interest on claims is to be computed. That the payment of any debts to or by said debtor and the transfer and delivery of any property by him are forbidden by law. That a meeting of the creditors of said debtor to prove their debts and choose one or more assignees of his estate, will be held at a Court of Insolvency to be holden at the Probate Court Room in Bangor, in said County of Penobscot, on Wednesday, the 20th day of June, A. D. 1888, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

Given under my hand the date first above written.

JAMES F. MALONEY, Deputy Sheriff,
As Messenger of the Court of Insolvency for said County of Penobscot.

Points in this New Refrigerator.

First—The Ice Box is removable.

Second—Ice Box and Shelves removed, the entire inside is exposed for cleaning.

Third—The four sides of the Ice Box are exposed to the air, answering the double purpose of throwing off cold and condensing the moisture, rendering the air dry and very cold.

Fourth—Our Patent Cold Blast—the system of circulation and rotation of air—forces a constant stream of ice-cold air into the provision apartment.

Fifth—The simple construction of this Refrigerator reduces the cost for repairs to a minimum.

[illegible] party welcomes an ex[illegible] of its administration of [illegible] power which four years ago [illegible] trust in the election [illegible] Cleveland, and it challenges the [illegible] inquiry concerning its fi[illegible] to the pledges which [illegible] the suffrages of the people. [illegible] critical period of our finan[illegible] resulting from over taxation, [illegible] condition of our currency [illegible] debt unmatured, it has, by [illegible] wise and conservative [illegible] averted disaster but great[illegible] prosperity of the people [illegible] reversed the improvident and un[illegible] of the Republican party touch[illegible] domain and has reclaimed [illegible] railroads and syndicates, alien [illegible] and restored to the people [illegible] millions of acres of [illegible] to be sacredly held as home[illegible] citizens

[illegible] fully guarding the interest of [illegible] and conforming strictly to [illegible] justice and equality, it has [illegible] for pensions and bounties [illegible] sailors of the Republic than [illegible] before during an equal [illegible]

[illegible] intelligent management and ju[illegible] economic expenditure of the [illegible] it has set on foot a recon[illegible] the American navy, upon a [illegible] forbids a recurrence of scan[illegible] successful results It has [illegible] persistently pursued a firm [illegible] foreign policy, preserving [illegible] with all nations while scrupulously [illegible] all the rights and interests of [illegible] government and people at home [illegible]

[illegible] exclusion from our shores of Chinese [illegible] has been effectually secured under [illegible] of a treaty the operation of [illegible] has been postponed by the action of [illegible] majority in the Senate.

Honest reform in the civil service has been inaugurated and maintained by President Cleveland and he has brought the public service to a high standard of efficiency not only by rule and precept but by the example of his own untiring and unselfish administration of public affairs.

In every branch and department of the government under Democratic control the rights and welfare of all the people have been guarded and defended. Every public interest has been protected and the equality of all our citizens before the law without regard to race or color has been steadfastly maintained

Upon its record thus exhibited and upon the pledge of a continuance to the people of the benefits of good government, the National Democracy invoke a renewal of the popular trust by the re-election of a chief magistrate who has been faithful, able and prudent.

They invoke, in addition to that trust, the transfer to the Democracy of the entire legislative power. The Republican party, controlling the Senate and resisting in both houses of Congress a reformation of unjust and unequal laws, which have outlasted the necessities of the war and are now undermining the abundance of a long peace, deny to the people equality before the law and the fairness and the justice which are their right Thus the cry of American labor for a better share of the rewards of industry is stifled with false pretences, enterprise is fettered and bound down to the "home market," capital is disturbed with doubt and these unequal, unjust laws can never be properly amended nor repealed

The Democratic party will continue with all the power confided to it to struggle to reform these laws in accordance with the pledges of the last platform indorsed at the ballot box by the suffrages of the people

Of all the industrious freemen of our land an immense majority, including every tiller of the soil, gain no advantage from excessive tax laws, but the price of nearly everything they buy is increased by the favoritism of an unequal system of tax legislation All unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation

It is repugnant to the creed of the Democracy that by such taxation the cost of the necessaries of life should be unjustly increased to all our people Judged by Democratic principles, the interests of the people are betrayed when by unnecessary taxation trusts and combines are permitted and fostered which will unduly enrich the few that combine to rob our citizens by depriving them of the benefit of natural competition

Every Democratic rule of governmental action is violated when through unnecessary taxation a vast sum of money beyond the needs of an economical administration is drawn from the people and the channels of trade and accumulated as a demoralizing surplus in the National Treasury

The money now lying idle in federal treasury resulting from superfluous taxation amounts to more than $125,000,000, and the surplus collected is reaching the sum of more than $60,000,000 annually Debauched by this immense temptation the remedy of the Republican party is to meet and exhaust it by extravagant taxation The Democratic remedy is to enforce frugality in the public expenditures and abolish unnecessary taxation

Our established domestic industries and enterprises should not and need not be endangered by a reduction and correction of the burdens of taxation On the contrary a fair and careful revision of our tax laws with due allowance for the difference between the wages of American and foreign labor must encourage every branch of industry and enterprise by giving them the assurance of an extended market and a steady and continuous [illegible] in the interest of American labor which should in [illegible] event be neglected

The revision of our tax laws contemplated by the Democratic party is to promote the advantage of labor by cheapening the cost of the necessaries of life in the home of every working man at the same time securing to him steady and remunerative employment

Upon this question of tariff reform so closely concerning every phase of our National life, and upon every question involved in the problem of good government the Democratic party submits its principles and professions to the intelligent suffrages of the American people.

The Platform was Unanimously Adopted—The Mills Bill Indorsed

Mr Scott from the Committee on Resolutions presented a resolution indorsing the Mills bill and urging its immediate passage which was carried unanimously

Nominating a Vice President

Mr E Tarpey of California took the platform to present Mr Thurman

When Mr Tarpey proposed that Mr Thurman should be nominated by acclamation the Gray men came to the rescue of their candidate and enthusiastically hurrahed Chairman Collins informed the occupants of the galleries which are packed for Gray, that unless they cease their noise and interruptions they will be ejected

Mr Patterson nominated Gen Black and referred to Thurman's age and the fears that in case of his death the Senate might again be cursed by another Ingalls (Cheers on the floor and hisses in the galleries) Mr Pigott of Connecticut, seconded Thurman Mr Voorhees nominated Gray

Gov Green of New Jersey, seconded the nomination of Mr Thurman amid wild excitement

Gen Baldus of New York, also seconded Thurman, whose name was received with tremendous enthusiasm

Messrs Dawson of South Carolina and Thompson of Tennessee followed suit

The Vote by States

The clerk read the names those placed in nomination for Vice President, Thurman Gray and Black each receiving great applause The clerk called the roll of States and Territories and the chairman of each delegation announced the names of those for whom the delegates voted with the following result

Alabama—Black 1, Gray 4, Thurman 15
Arkansas—Thurman 14
California—Thurman 16

Vermont—Thurman 8
Virginia—Thurman 24
West Virginia—Thurman 11

When the State of Wisconsin was called every delegate in the hall rose and again began a scene which rivalled the uproar of yesterday when Cleveland was nominated. Everybody produced a red bandana and every guidon in the hall was decorated with one. Delegate Taylor, of Indiana, attached an enormous bandana to the guidon of Indiana and the delegation marched up to the reading desk with it, creating unbounded enthusiasm. When Mr. Flower, of New York succeeded in crowding his way to the reading desk with the guidon of that State, also having attached to it an enormous bandana, the delegation became frantic. The uproar was finally quieted in a measure and the clerk again called the State of Wisconsin

The Chairman announced 22 for Thurman

Iowa—Thurman 26.

Territories

Alaska—Thurman 2
Arizona—Thurman 2.
Dakota—Thurman 2.
District of Columbia—Thurman 2

Mr. Patterson, of California, withdrew the name of Gen Black and moved that the name of Thurman be made unanimous. (Cheers.)

Colorado changed the vote of Gray to Thurman.

Ohio made her vote unanimous for Thurman.

Mr. Shanklin, of Indiana, withdrew Gray and moved that the nomination be unanimous for Thurman.

On motion that Thurman be nominated by acclamation the convention rose and poured forth a unanimous aye, and Thurman was declared nominated, amid loud and long cheering.

The convention adopted the resolutions declaring for the admission of Washington, Dakota, Montana, and New Mexico into the Union, also a resolution favoring home rule in Ireland and indorsing Gladstone and Parnell.

Resolutions of respect for the late Vice-President Hendricks were also adopted

Chairman Collins and Clerk Pettit were made members of the notification committee.

The resolutions offered by Mr Fellows, of New York, on the deaths of Tilden, Seymour, McClellan and Hancock were adopted. The convention then, at 2 08 P M, adjourned sine die

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you have dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, watery and inflamed, ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers, voice changed and nasal twang; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired, is there a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility? If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from Nasal Catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, a reward of $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents. d&w1w je5

All cases of weak or lame back, backache, rheumatism, will find relief by wearing one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters. Price 25 cents. Try them. june10 d&w1w

If you are nervous or dyspeptic try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Dyspepsia makes you nervous, and nervousness makes you dyspeptic, either one renders you miserable, and these little pills cure both. june10 d&w1w

SEBEC LAKE Navigation on Sebec Lake opens briskly. In addition to the beautifully and commodious propeller "Marion" Capt. A. G Crockett is making two regular weekly trips from Sebec village to Willimantic Capt F H. Jordan has also started his pleasure barge, "The Freddie and Eddie," which did such excellent service last season A gentleman who has recently been on a fishing trip to the lake tells us that there is very good trout and landlocked salmon fishing there, and that the fish have begun to take the fly very briskly. Quite a number of fishermen have been trying the sport and some gentlemen from Connecticut have been among those to throw the fly. They have been camping near the lake.

THE OPERA HOUSE SEASON. The regular dramatic season at the Opera House closes this evening with the performance of "A Night Off" by the Rehan Company. It has been of forty-four weeks duration, and the most successful of any in the history of the Opera House, very few entertainments failing to be well attended. One hundred and twenty performances have been given, and these have been for the most part by companies which are regarded as among the best of travelling companies. The Opera House will remain closed, during the summer months when the usual renovating will be done, and the next season will open early in September with the production of "Jim, the Penman," which has had such a successful run in Boston, New York and other cities. There will be attractions during Fair week, but these have not as yet been settled upon.

The discovery of smoke yesterday morning issuing from the wall of the store of Charles Catell, at the end of Jones' block caused an alarm to be rung in from the steamer's house no alarm being given from a box A slight fire was found in the wall and this was put out without any water being used from the hydrants The fire department was promptly on hand How the fire originated seems to be a mystery No damage worth mentioning was done

THE MISSING MAN Through our item yesterday morning in reference to the missing man, Frank Patten who mysteriously disappeared Tuesday evening his friends were enabled to hear from him last evening that he was safe The information came through THE WHIG's Bradford correspondent who writes us that he arrived at Bradford early Wednesday morning and is now there No reason for his freak can be given other than temporary aberration of the mind, as when he left the house where he visited Tuesday night he said he must be at the farm to milk the next morning, and therefore refused an invitation to stop all night Instead of that, however he brought up at Bradford twenty miles away The news of his safety was a great relief to his friends

THE CROP Grass is not near as forward and promising as at the same date last year Many fields were not covered with snow but a small portion of the winter and the grass roots are severely injured while the season has been most favorable for putting in grain and other crops, which at this time is looking well They will soon be suffering unless rain comes to their rescue Our farmers have been for several years constantly increasing the breadth of their cultivated crops and the favorable weather for planting in seed this spring has enabled them to make an unusual increase and more care has been given to the thorough preparation of the soil Great care has also been given to the sowing of all kinds of seeds, and nearly every farmer has invested liberally in fertilizers All this is conducive to an abundant crop if a sufficient quantity of rain fall

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC LINE Engine No 13 from the Southeastern Railroad was taken through the city yesterday to Greenville for the use of the Canadian Pacific railroad It will propel a train that will soon be started to lay the rails on the new road beginning at that end A few rails have already been laid, but work in earnest will begin in a few days, when the work will be begun at both ends of the line A number of cargoes of rails have recently been brought to this city by vessel and sent up over the Bangor and Piscataquis railroad to be stowed until needed The work will be pushed this summer and large crews will be engaged at different points along the line The contractors say that they will have the entire road finished early in the winter so that trains may begin running Much slower progress is made than was expected at the outset on account of the hard ground and ledges that have been encountered

THE WEEKLY COURIER is issued from this office this morning and is the usual valuable number There are forty eight valuable columns almost entirely devoted to reading matter The price of THE WEEKLY is only one dollar per year and will be especially valuable to send to absent friends during the exciting times of the campaign Each issue contains the latest telegraph news to the time of going to press, sixty ninth anniversary exercises of the Theological Seminary, Maine Universalist convention at Lewiston, filing of new motion in the Stain-Cromwell matter Democratic National Convention at St Louis, graduating exercises at Hampden Academy, anniversary exercises at E M C Seminary at Bucksport, debate in Congress on the free lumber section of the tariff bill, Memorial Day exercises, an interesting story, "The Story of a Masterpiece, Eastern Maine news from our correspondents, local matter and much miscellaneous matter Copies in wrappers may be obtained at the counting room

AMUSEMENTS

Nancy & Co.

The Rehan Company made a great hit last evening in "Nancy & Co," which is one of the best comedies ever presented before a Bangor audience, and the merit of the play deserved a packed house, which was not vouchsafed it last evening, the audience being light The criticism is sometimes made that not enough first class entertainments are given at the Opera House, but it may be if this is so that it is the fault of the people, who allow such an excellent performance as that given last evening to go so lightly attended.

Not only is the play itself one of the funniest and most entertaining, but it was given by a company which is fully equal to portraying its spirit in the best possible manner. There is not a single character in the play that was not splendidly taken, and the different scenes were so amusingly and naturally represented that it was continuous mirth from the moment of the rising of the curtain to its fall. The different members of the company are introduced into many situations of the funniest description, which would almost draw a laugh from a mummy.

It is unnecessary in a company so well fitted to bring out every point of the play to the best possible effect, and so evenly balanced, to make special mention of every member, although no encomium is too good for each; but suffice it to state that the whole entertainment gave the highest satisfaction and was received with much enthusiasm, the individual members receiving frequent applause and the curtain being rung up after three of the acts, while after the last act the audience to an individual remained in their seats vigorously applauding until the curtain was raised—an unusual occurrence.

This evening "A Night Off" will be presented and it should be greeted by a very large audience, as every one who witnesses the play is bound to come away well pleased.

The Grand Jury has been in session all day.

An Eloquent Tribute.

Hon Hannibal Hamlin was the Memorial Day orator at Ellsworth and in presenting him Commander J C. Chilcott spoke as follows.

Viewed in retrospect how brief and fleeting seem twenty-eight years! Facing toward the past and taking, as it were, a single stride in that direction we stand face to face with the first administration of Abraham Lincoln. A slight movement further and we find ourselves in the very midst of the exciting political campaign of 1860, listening to the stirring speeches that were made and the no less stirring songs that were sung for Lincoln and Hamlin.

Facing again toward the present a little interim and the election, then the secession of the rebel States, then the inauguration and then the war, the events of which I need not recite; they are known only too well, at least to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The memories connected with the administration of President Lincoln are indeed sacred memories. The love the people bear for the survivors of that administration is a deep and an abiding love. And right here a fact presents itself which is as interesting as it is remarkable, and that is this: Of all the men who have been elected Vice President of the United States from the earliest existence of the Government down to the present time, one alone is alive to-day, and he was an honored and important part of the first administration of Abraham Lincoln and is here present, on this platform this afternoon! Henceforward, in the estimation of the Union soldiers, the ground on which that venerable Vice President shall stand and walk shall be hallowed ground!

Gen. John A. Logan, the first commander of the National Grand Army of the Republic, for deeds of valor during the war and of friendliness and devotion afterwards to those who wore the blue, became the idol of the Union soldiers and sailors; but when he died, his mantle fell upon another and that other has come here to-day to address us

Comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic, ladies of the Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans of Hannibal Hamlin Camp, citizens of Ellsworth One of the greatest pleasures as well as honors of my life is to present to you as the speaker of the day ex-Vice President Hannibal Hamlin, who in the war, second only to Lincoln, is now, of living men, first in the hearts of his countrymen

AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

Caught in a Gale on Moosehead Lake

Last evening Messrs George I Wescott, William P Dickey John F Colby, Arthur Chapin and J A Fairbanks who with I B Mayo, Esq, of Foxcroft, and a gentleman from Massachusetts have been on a fishing trip to Moosehead Lake, returned home last night, bringing home not only samples of the delicious trout which the lake yields up to its votaries, but also stories of a thrilling experience which they passed through and from which they were truly fortunate to escape with their lives As gathered from one of the gentlemen of the party and another who came down from the lake with them the story briefly was as follows

The severe thunder storm which passed over the city Wednesday evening was wide spread, as indicated by our despatches, and Moosehead Lake was within the circuit of its range. The party of gentlemen named above had gone up the lake to Duck Cove about twelve miles above Kineo in the staunch steamer Louisa Captain Sawyer, with a complete outfit of boats, canoes, guides, fishing tackle, etc The boat dropped anchor at the cove about five o'clock [illegible] and the party separated in their boats and canoes and went out fishing In about half an hour an ominous looking cloud accompanied by a swaying of the trees upon the shore indicated that an atmospherical disturbance of unusual severity was about to take place and almost immediately the effect of the wind was seen and felt upon the water Captain Sawyer at once called out to those in the boats to make haste and come aboard the steamer as he could not lie there three minutes

All hands at once took in anchor and pulled for the boat Mr Mayo and guide were first to reach the steamer, but their boat was half full of water by the time they got to the steamer and they were just enabled to get on board and left their boat, tackle, fish, etc, go adrift Mr Dickey and guide and Messrs Colby and Chapin also got on board and let their boats go adrift but the latter two came near being swamped by the shower of life preservers swept from the deck by the wind The boat could hold on no longer and Captain Sawyer cut the anchor hawser and stood her head to the wind and rode out the gale like a duck Meanwhile Messrs Wescott and Fairbanks had pulled their boat ashore as also did a guide with two Massachusetts parties who afterwards endeavored to reach the steamer After the gale had passed over the men on shore were taken aboard the boats and such tackle as had not been lost were picked up and the party returned to Kineo

Here they found that the gale had also been severe and Mr Dean said that there had been no blow like it for twenty years A boat which had been at Kineo, was returning to the wharf and had reached within a short distance of the wharf when it was driven out by the wind until out of sight Steam was gotten upon a steamer as quickly as possible and she was sent in search of the boat, which it was feared had capsized and carried down its cargo of human life Fortunately and to the great joy of all they were found safe in a cove about two miles and a half away It was a terrible gale and with the large number of people at and upon the lake it is a wonder that no fatalities occurred There were four or five excursion steamers out at the time of the gale One of them got in [illegible] the party which came down yesterday and he would not go through the experience again for the whole of the Piscataquis Railroad All speak in the highest terms of the coolness skill and good management of Captain Sawyer and the staunch qualities of his steamer Louisa

DECORATIVE ART.

Having acquired the proprietorship of a new and beautiful process of decorating walls, panels, ceilings, pottery, or in fact, any surface desired, I now desire to extend the practice of the method, and to that end am prepared to sell rights for Bangor, Brewer and Orrington. The work is extremely simple and can readily be done by any intelligent person. This is an exceptionable opportunity for bright young men desiring an employment at once light, pleasant and profitable. I will instruct any person purchasing the exclusive right for any of the towns mentioned, so that they may go to teaching and selling individual rights at once. The work is exceedingly inexpensive, and its beauty, together with its manifest superiority over any other paint, recommends it at once. Those interested and the public generally, can see samples of the work at 75 Pickering Square.

Van Deckermann's Bargain.

By M. THRED.

I gave him my word that I would respect his wishes, and an hour or so later found me in possession of the room which had been assigned me at the Cedars. Mr. Van Deckermann had not himself faced the cutting cold of the moonlit December night, but the old couple were on the lookout for my appearance, and things had been made more comfortable than I expected. Some of the old furniture, of which my host had spoken when he first entered upon the subject of the house, had been brought down from the garrets, and disposed in what would appear to have been its original quarters, while a bright fire burned frostily in the old fashioned grate. I observed, with a certain remorseful appreciation of a thoughtfulness for my comfort for which I should not have given her credit, that Mrs. Minchin had not limited her provision for my accommodation to absolute necessaries. Of the two windows, the one nearest to the bed was closely and carefully curtained—for the other, as she took occasion to explain, there was no curtain forthcoming, and an armchair and footstool, with the faded coverings of which the moth had long since made acquaintance, had been drawn up to the fire. The old woman seemed indeed to have remembered everything, even to the night light in a saucer on the mantle piece, to ignite which was her last care before leaving me for the night. For the rest, she was as taciturn as her employer could have wished. She received my thanks in silence, and, having ascertained at what hour she was to call me, left me to myself with all possible celerity.

When she had turned her back I proceeded to take a minute survey of the room. That it was, or had been at some time, the scene of whatever mystery was connected with the house, I could not reasonably doubt, seeing the object with which I had been sent there. The first thing for me to do then was to discover in what way—if any—it was likely to lend itself to the perpetration of a fraud.

Briefly, I could find nothing in it to reward my inquiries. It was a large room, almost square, with nothing remarkable about it. There were, as I have said, two windows, and there was one of the closets my wife's heart had delighted in. I opened the door of this and looked in. It was empty, as it had been, in common with the rest, on the occasion of my previous visit. The bedstead, which had been brought down from the attics, was of mahogany, minus poles or hangings. Nowhere was there any ambush for anything, one could see the room and all it contained at a glance. I went to the curtained window and examined it carefully; it fitted well and was fastened; so was the other, the blind of which I drew up, and saw the garden lying below me, every shrub that it contained clearly defined in the moonlight. I left the blind up—undressed with my usual expedition, and went to bed and to sleep.

It was between 3 and 4 in the morning when I awoke, for I took note of the time afterward, but what it was that caused me to awake I cannot say. All I know is that the room was as light as day, and that I was not alone in it.

Creeping stealthily across the room, and feeling his way with his hands as one might who was blind, was the figure of Andrew Van Deckermann. He had his profile toward me,

He had his profile toward me and his head was even more shrunk within his shoulders than usual, so that I could not rightly distinguish his features, but his gait and dress were as familiar as they were remarkable. About the cut of that brown coat, as about the peculiar inclination of the head and body, there could be no mistake. But how and with what object had he come thither? I had left him in his own house—true, there was nothing to prevent him from following me, but what could be his motive? Was it possible I was the dupe after all of a madman, and that the traits I had regarded as mere eccentricities ought, in reality, to have given me the clew to the truth? Was it to be accounted for in this way, or was it that the sarcastic humor, of which I had seen a good deal in my intercourse with him, had prompted him to subject my boasted scepticism to an ordeal which, malicious though it might be, was, perhaps, not undeserved? But this last hypothesis would not hold water for a moment. Granted that the old Dutchman had the will to conceive a practical joke of this sort, he would assuredly, were he in his right mind, have chosen a more convenient season for carrying it out in his own proper person. There was but one elucidation of conduct so extraordinary—my first conjecture was the right one—Mr. Van Deckermann was not accountable for his actions.

It is not an agreeable sensation, that of being tete-a-tete with a madman, even though he be old and feeble, and you apprehend no violence from him. In the moonlight, too, things have a strange, uncanny look with them. I tried to flatter myself that I was keeping silence and pretending not to be awake, partly in order to see what my visitor was about to do, partly to defeat his insane malice, but I was conscious, in spite of myself, of a fascination against which I was powerless. To lie and watch from between my closed eyelids was all I could do.

Still with hands outstretched, still with the same tottering gait, past the foot of the bed, and toward the fireplace where, turning round in the mid-stream of the moonlight, face and figure alike stood revealed. The same and yet not the same, a mask rather than a face—the lips parted, the eyes open and staring fixedly before them, with a terrible, unmistakable stare of vacuity—the face of one more dead than alive. Terrible as the sight was, it brought with it a sudden and unlooked for relief. The first look at those apparently sightless orbs and that expressionless countenance assured me that the old man was as genuinely unconscious of his surroundings as I was endeavoring to appear to be of mine. Once before, I had seen a man walking in his sleep, and I had not forgotten that ghastly phenomenon.

He was still groping about with his hands, and it did not occur to me at the moment as altogether opposed to the theory I had so readily adopted that what was in his normal state only nearsightedness should be exaggerated in his present condition into almost if not total—blindness. Suddenly, while I was still watching him, for my eyes had not quitted him for a moment, one wandering hand found a resting place on the arm of the big chair I had noticed upon entering the room as having been put for my accommodation. The effect upon the frame of the old man was as though there were connected with the wood a galvanic battery. Every nerve in his body seemed to be put in motion, but though his teeth chattered and his eyes moved in their sockets, no sound escaped him—it was as though one had electrified a corpse.

So strong as that, and yet not strong enough to awaken him! A chill that I could not account for, and that seemed to be numbing all my faculties, was creeping over me. The face that I was staring at, with eyes which refused to leave it for the shortest moment of time, seemed more and more the distorted image of that I was familiar with; I felt as though break this unnatural silence I must, but no words came to my assistance. Had I, too, been struck dumb and helpless? If only he would speak, rave, do anything!

I was scarcely conscious of the longing that was upon me, before it was gratified; the trembling figure erected itself, as if determinedly getting the better of the shock it had received, and once more, but this time as of fixed purpose, the thin grasping fingers were stretched out in the direction of the chair. As they closed upon it, the whole face changed, an expression of eagerness and avidity took the place of the vacant stare I had hitherto confronted, what looked like a flash of triumph seemed to quicken into life, beneath their bushy brows, the eyes whose power of vision I had thought suspended, and with a strange, unearthly sound, half cry, half chuckle, which made my blood creep, the old man flung himself on his knees before the chair.

In this attitude, and with his back to me, what was it he was doing, or attempting to do.

I raised myself a little in the bed and saw to my increased mystification that he had taken hold of the chair—a ponderous old contrivance, swathed in a loose cover of faded damask—and was apparently endeavoring to tilt it up. The chances were he would upset it, and not escape without more or less injury to himself in doing so. Yet how to withdraw him from it without awakening him, and that roughly—a measure always, so I had been instructed, to be carefully avoided in cases of somnambulism.

"Mr. Van Deckermann," I said, finding my voice at last with an effort, "can I come and help you?"

There was a short, sharp sound as of something falling, but there was no answer—and where was Mr. Van Deckermann!

The old chair was still standing—and standing on terra firma in the track of the moonbeams—of the homely elderly figure in the brown suit, which had been kneeling before it a moment before, there was not a trace. I sprang out of bed, fired with a sudden overmastering indignation at finding himself, as it were, baffled and cheated, and flung open the doors of the closet, of the emptiness of which I had assured myself before retiring for the night. It was as I had left it. The only other way in which, even supposing my senses for the moment to have deserted me, my visitor could have eluded me was quitting the room outright.

I went to the door—it was locked, as I had taken the precaution of locking it a few hours previously, on the inside.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you have dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, watery and inflamed; ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; voice changed and nasal twang; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; is there a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility? If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from Nasal Catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, a reward of $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents. d&w1w Je5

SORE FROM KNEE TO ANKLE.

Skin entirely gone. Flesh a mass of disease. Leg diminished one-third in size. Condition hopeless. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle, the skin was entirely gone, and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one third the size of the other, and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified, and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and to-day, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever it was, sound in every respect, and not a sign of the disease to be seen.

Terrible Suffering from Skin Disease.

I have been a terrible sufferer for years from diseases of the skin and blood, and have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors. Have had the best of physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, but got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin as clear and my blood as pure as a child's.

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently assailed by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his Radical Cure has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent and an Improved Inhaler; Price, $1.

TRUE'S PIN WORM ELIXIR

A WONDERFUL REMEDY

MARVELOUS IN ITS EFFECTS

Mothers, save your children from the annoyance and fatal effects of pin worms, by giving

Pin Worm Elixir.

A GREAT DISCOVERY!

It is claimed to be the safest, most potent and most effectual remedy known for this child killing Disease. As a cathartic vermifuge it has no equal. It expels all kinds of worms, and in fact all living creatures that infest the bowels of suffering humanity, are triumphantly expelled by this truly wonderful remedy. Testimony in its favor comes in from all sections where it is known. It not only effectually removes from the system those troublesome and disagreeable worms; but children who have been weak and puny for years, are at once improved and restored to health by its use. Being a mild and gentle laxative, it is a corrective of the greatest value. It is purely vegetable and cannot be beat. It has also expelled several lizards. One eight inches in length, is spotted, belongs to the water species and looks like a veritable young alligator. Fits caused by worms and indigestion.

BUY IT AND TRY IT.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, Administratrix of the estate of Daniel P. Wingate, late of Bangor, in said County, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased, are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration.

Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant her a license to sell at public or private sale, and convey the whole of the following described real estate of said deceased, including the reversion of the widow's dower therein, as the residue would be greatly depreciated by a sale of any portion thereof, to wit:

A certain lot of land situated in said Bangor, with the buildings thereon, between Wingate Court on the east and Maple street on the west, and is sixty two and one half (62½) feet wide and one hundred and seventy (170) feet long, and is same described in a deed recorded in Penobscot Registry of Deeds, Vol. 417, page 464, also one other lot of land situate in said Bangor, containing twenty three (23) acres, more or less, and is the second parcel of land described in a deed recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Vol. 367, page 278, of the real estate of the deceased (including the reversion of the widow's dower therein), to satisfy said debts, expenses of sale and charges of administration.

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, guardian of Sumner L. Crosby and Ella Crosby, minor heirs of James E. Crosby late of Bangor, in said County, deceased, respectfully represents that said minors are seized and possessed of the following described real estate, viz:

Each one fortieth part in common and undivided of a parcel of land situate in said Bangor, described as follows. Commencing at a point in the centre of the opening under the M. C. R. R. track and on a line with the easterly side of the abutments to said opening, thence south thirty-seven degrees east four hundred and twenty two feet to an angle in the wharf, thence same course to low water in Penobscot River, thence southwesterly by said river to land sold by Timothy Crosby to I. P. Bass, thence by said Bass's line to Hampden road, so-called, to a point S. 61½ W. 0 R. 15¾ links from a street monument, thence north about 61°45' E. 6 rods, 15¾ links to a monument in the easterly line of said road; thence northerly by line of said road and by the line of the M. C. R. R. to the point begun at—see plan and survey of Fred H. Coombs, dated March 12, 1875—together with a right to twelve and a half feet of land for a passage way on the northeasterly side of said described lot, extending from the point begun at, two hundred and fifty feet to an iron bolt, the place of beginning being the first opening above the Hampden road bridge; subject to the widow's right of dower therein, the whole of said premises being the same described in a mortgage deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds for said County, Volume 411, page 481.

That it would be for the benefit of said minors that said real estate should be sold, and the proceeds thereof put out at interest, or otherwise used for their benefit.

She therefore prays that license may be granted her to sell and convey the above described real estate at public or private sale, according to the requirement of law.
